

TRIFOLD Data Inserts – Fort Knox

Importance for the Army

Fort Knox will transform from its current role as the home of the United States Army Armor Center and School to a multi-functional installation serving as the home of the BRAC created Human Resources Center of Excellence, realigned operational Army units, various Headquarters and Field Operating Agencies, and Army Reserve Training headquarters. BRAC actions at Knox also help facilitate the realignment of forces from Europe and aid in the Army's Modular Force Transformation. To facilitate these missions, the following actions will occur:

BRAC Actions:

- Realign Headquarters, Army Accessions Command (AAC) from Fort Monroe, Virginia to Fort Knox.
- Realign Headquarters, Army Cadet Command (ACC) from Fort Monroe, Virginia to Fort Knox.
- Activate an Infantry Brigade Combat Team (IBCT) at Fort Knox upon completion of its operational deployment and redeployment to Fort Hood.
- Realign Engineer, Military Police, and Combat Service Support units from Germany to Fort Knox.
- Realign the Army Reserve Training Center (ARRTC) from Fort McCoy, Wisconsin to Fort Knox.
- Realign the Army Reserve's 100th Division (Institutional Training) from Louisville, Kentucky to Fort Knox.
- Realign Active and Reserve Component Human Resources Command (HRC) elements from Alexandria, Virginia, Indianapolis, Indiana, St. Louis, Missouri, to Fort Knox.
- Relocate Army Human Resources XXI (Solutions) Office from leased facilities in Arlington, Virginia.
- Relocate Army Center for Substance Abuse from leased facilities in Falls Church, Virginia.
- Move Army Research Institute (ARI), Human Systems Research to Aberdeen Proving Ground, Maryland.
- Move Armor Center and School to Fort Benning.
